Keppel Offshore & Marine

A wholly-owned subsidiary of Keppel Corporation, Keppel Offshore & Marine (Keppel O&M) is one of the largest offshore and marine groups in the world. Combining the expertise and experience of Keppel FELS, Keppel Shipyard and Keppel Singmarine, the group’s near market, near customer strategy is bolstered by a network of 17 yards in the Asia Pacific, Gulf of Mexico, Brazil, Caspian Sea, Middle East and the North Sea.

The Keppel O&M group offers total solutions to customers. It has an established reputation in the international market for its versatility, reliability, quality service, timely delivery, good project management and commitment to excellence. Quality solutions to customers are enhanced by proprietary technology and critical engineering expertise.

The Maritime and Port Authority of Singapore

The Maritime and Port Authority of Singapore (MPA) was established on 2 February 1996. It safeguards Singapore’s strategic maritime interests and is the driving force behind Singapore's continued push as a global hub port and an International Maritime Centre (IMC).

With its appointment as the champion agency to spearhead Singapore’s development as an IMC in 2003, the MPA is expanding the Singapore maritime industry by developing a strong and attractive cluster of ancillary services. These range from, among others, ship broking, ship management, marine insurance, shipping finance, maritime legal/arbitration services, R&D initiatives, and maritime education and training. The MPA also promotes Singapore's strengths as a hub port and a quality ship registry.

The Singapore Maritime Foundation

The Singapore Maritime Foundation (SMF), launched in March 2004, is a private sector-led organisation that seeks to work in partnership with different sectors of the maritime industry and relevant government agencies to develop and promote Singapore as an International Maritime Centre (IMC).

The SMF’s broad objectives are:

- To provide the forum in the private sector for the exchange, generation and development of ideas and proposals to realise the vision of Singapore as an IMC.
- To act as the catalyst to encourage and stimulate the development of co-operation between and among the sectors of the maritime industry.
- To partner the government as the private sector's representative in activities to promote Singapore as an IMC and development of the maritime manpower to support the industry.

The Association of Singapore Marine Industries

The Association of Singapore Marine Industries (ASMI) is a non-profit trade association formed since 1968 to promote the interest and advancement of the marine industry in Singapore.

ASMI represents the different sectors of the Singapore marine industry in the business of ship repair and conversion, shipbuilding, rigbuilding, offshore engineering and other marine supporting services. Its members include big and small shipyards, local and foreign manufacturers and suppliers of marine equipment and components, marine engineering and consultancy companies, and many others whose business activities are directly related to the industry.

The Association has a membership strength of 180 corporate members.
